I would tak the ground that I had invited him to the College to pay life money, and that I and paid him secondingly. I fixed upon the - on by taking the small note and addition of rest, which it appears I cast erroncously

If I had thought of this course earlier should not have have deposited Petter's wik for $90 in the Charles River Bank Saturday, but should have suppressed it a going so far towards making up the sum which I was to profess to have paid the day infore, and which Pettee knew I had by me at the hear of the interview. It had of occurred to me that I should ever show the notes cancelled in proof of the pay-ment; if it had, I should have destroyed the large note, and let it be inferred that was gone with the missing man, and should only have kept the small one, which was all that I could pretend to have paid. My sinpin thought was concealingent and safety .-Everything else was incidental to that e as in no state to consider my ulterior poequiary interests. Money, though I need od it so much was of no account with me in that condition of mind.

If I had designed and pre-neditated the bosnicide of Dr. P. in order to get posses-sion of the notes and cancel my delst, I not only should not have deposited Petter' check the next day, but I should have made some show of getting and having the money the morning before. I should have drawn my money from the bank, and taken occasion to mention to the cashier, that I had a sum to make out that day for Dr. P., and the sam to Henchman when I borrowed the $10 .-I should have remarked that I was so much short of a large sum I was to pay Dr Parkman. The tin lox was designed to receive the therax, though I had not concluded where I should finally put the box. The fish books tied up as grapples, were to be used in drawing up the parts in the vault whenever I should determine how to dispose of them And yet strange enough I had a confused double object in ordering the box and making the grapples. I had before intended things to send to Fayal-the to get sook hos to hold plants and other articles which I wished to protect from salt water and the era air, and the hooks to be used there in obtaining coralline plants from the sea. It was this previously intended use of them that suggested and mixed itself up with the i lea of the other application. I doubt even now to which use they would have been arplied. I had not used the hooks at the time of the discovery.
